This Month's Special Feature:

Recycling mobile phones.

You may have got a new mobile phone for Christmas. Here are some ways that you can help the environment by either selling your old mobile phone or donating them to charity.

Envirofone

Fast, high paying and reliable.

Web only company Envirofone pays well, though not the very top prices, but wins due to its simple procedure and strong feedback. Enter the phone's details and it instantly gives you a price. This is either paid in cash (by cheque) or you can opt for roughly 15% more in Argos points. It also donates £1 to charity per phone. Envirofone, Mopay and Mobilephonebuyer will look at non-working phones, offering a reduced price for these or at the very least will recycle them for you.

Alternatively, Greener Solutions (who also run Mobile2cash) works in partnership with Tesco and offers 100 Clubcard points (worth £4 in Deals vouchers) for non-working phones or donates £1 to Tesco's current charity. Disposal bags are available from Tesco customer services.

What about the charity option?

These schemes work by simply giving the charity a cut of the cash you would've received; yet if you sell it, you get more than the charity does. So to maximize your donation, sell it yourself then donate the cash to the charity, which means not only does the charity get more cash, but because of the 'Gift Aid' scheme it can reclaim your tax too, which is an extra 28%.

Well done to Leeds City Council for collecting extra waste after Christmas that can be re-cycled.

Fact

In the UK, we use 13 billion steel cans every year. Stacked on top of each other, you could make three piles of cans that would reach to the moon.

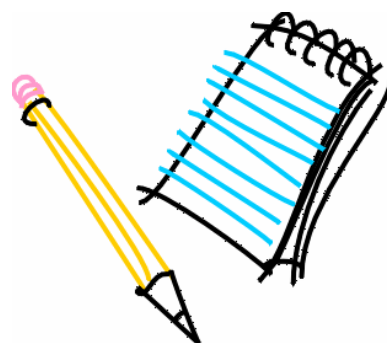

Competition:

Send us your recycle drawings and you could win some SCRIB stationary.

E-mail them to recycle@conxxion.com or give them to Rebecca.

All entries will be displayed in the next newsletter and put on the recycle website:
